Officials suspect crime was planned

Murder suspect arraigned, material witness charged

By NAN PATTON EHRBRIGHT

Eighteen-year-old Allen Nicolaou was taken to the Harrison County jail in Gulfport about 7 p.m. Tuesday after being arraigned before Justice Court Judge Bruce Necaise on charges relating to a double murder, armed robbery and kidnapping in Hancock County Friday night.

Robert Corkern, 21, of Shoreline Park, booked Saturday as a material witness in the case and later charged on two counts of capital murder as an accomplice of Nicolaou's, is incarcerated in the Hancock County jail without bond.

Waveland Police Department Investigator Robert (Poochie) Taravouille, Hancock County Sheriff's Department Investigator Alvin Ladner and Mississippi Highway Patrol Investigator T.P. Naylor flew to Texas Monday in a Highway Patrol plane to bring Nicolaou back to Mississippi.

The returning plane landed at Gulfport Tuesday afternoon, and Nicolaou was brought back to Bay St. Louis in an unmarked car.

Following his arrival at the sheriff's office about 4:30 p.m., he was finger-printed, photographed and arraigned, then interviewed by a group of law enforcement officials.

District Attorney Cono Caranna and Assistant District Attorney J.P. Compitello were also present.

Nicolaou was represented by Public Defender William Frisbie.

His preliminary hearing, Peterson said, was tentatively set for Feb. 8.

Originally from Canton, Ohio and a resident of Waveland for about three months, Nicolaou was apprehended

Saturday about noon near Midland, Tex., after running a speed trap and leading highway patrolmen in a high-speed chase.

His car was chased at speeds up to 110 miles per hour before an officer pulled in front of him and blocked his path, Peterson said.

He had eluded authorities in the Fort Worth area earlier.

Peterson said Nicolaou's parents, who live in Midland, advised him during a telephone conversation that their son told them he was driving to Texas to seek shelter with them.

Law enforcement officials first believed that the slayings of Gerald A. Comiskey, 54, originally of New Orleans and a resident of Waveland for about seven years, and Keith L. McMillian, 20, a resident of New Orleans with ties to Livingston, Tex., resulted from an argument.

Corkern was also charged with the murders after local officials interviewed him further and after Texas officials talked with Nicolaou.

Now, Peterson said, they believe that the murders might have been planned, with the motive being robbery.

"At this time we feel that Nicolaou and Corkern had talked about or planned to do this," he said.

"That's why we're charging them with capital murder."

Law officials now reconstruct the events of Friday night as follows, Peterson said:

—Comiskey, McMillian, Nicolaou and Corkern were all at Comiskey's home at 1320 Dubuc Lane in Waveland.

Nicolaou, who reportedly attended school in Gulfport, left the area and later returned, was living with Comiskey.

—Shortly before 8:15 p.m. Nicolaou pulled out a .25-calibre automatic and shot McMillian and Comiskey.

McMillian was shot three times, once in the chest cavity area and twice in the back.

He died at the scene. His body was found in the kitchen.

Comiskey was shot twice in the chest cavity area but managed to move to the telephone in another room to call Mobile Medic.

While he was on the telephone he was shot again—once in the chest and once in the buttocks.

He was taken to Hancock General Hospital after Mobile Medic notified the Waveland Police Department, where he died during surgery.

—Nicolaou and Corkern took Comiskey's credit cards, checks and 1983 Camaro and proceeded north on Hwy. 603.

—The two men stopped at the Olde Rooster Cafe in Kiln, where Nicolaou allegedly robbed the cafe of $250 and took two girls, aged 14 and 18, as hostages.

—Near Neece Crossing Nicolaou let Corkern and the two girls out of the car and Corkern notified the police, telling them he had been forced to go along with Nicolaou and had persuaded Nicolaou to release the girls.

Corkern has not been charged with armed robbery or kidnapping.

Nicolaou was captured after Hancock County law officers issued all-points bulletins and entered descriptions of Nicolaou and the car into the National Crime Information Computer system.

Peterson said Harrison County Sheriff Larkin Smith agreed to keep Nicolaou at the Harrison County jail. Because Nicolaou is only 18, and small, he will be better protected there, Peterson said.

"And we don't have enough one-person cells at the Hancock County jail," he added.

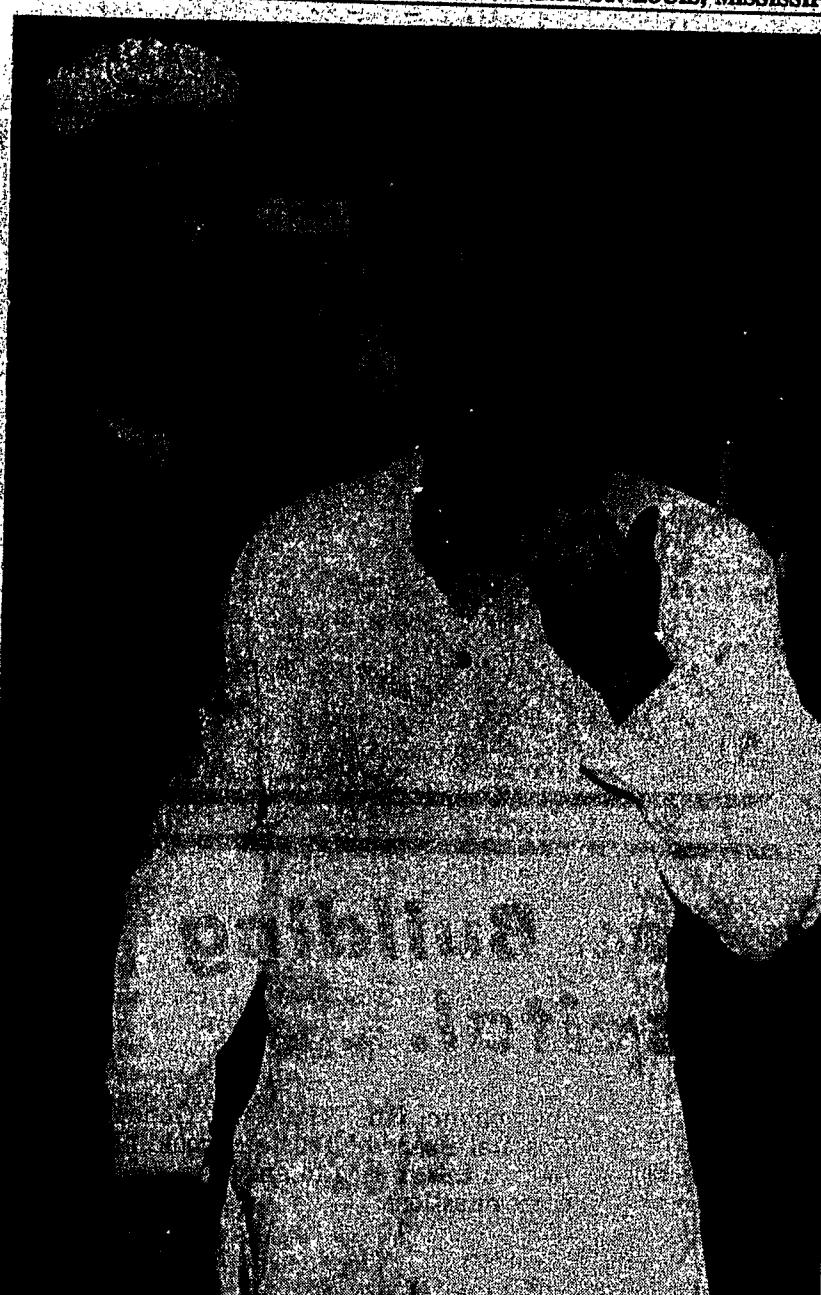

Local residents, especially those who are involved in Bay-Waveland Humane Society activities, are shocked by Comiskey's murder.

—Humane Society Secretary-Treasurer Rosemary Malandra of Waveland said that he was a perfect gentleman and such a generous person to everyone, especially to animals.

"He was such an asset to our Humane Society," she said.

"I'm just broken up about it—and so happy that we had him for a little while."

Corps involved in $1 million basin study

Channelization, structure removal among Pearl River flood remedies

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

U.S. Army Corps of Engineers experts are now analyzing data to determine alternatives to solve Pearl River flooding problems in the Pearl River and Slidell area.

Those alternatives under study range from channelization of the Pearl to moving residents out of flood prone areas.

Michael Logue, assistant public affairs officer for the Corps Vicksburg District, says the agency is in the midst of the almost $1 million project titled the Slidell-Pearl River Study which the Corps expects to complete in May. A public hearing is planned for sometime in June to present the study alternatives to the public and to receive comments, Logue says.

He reports the Corps has gathered just about all necessary data and its 'planners' in Vicksburg are now analyzing that information to formulate a viable proposal for dealing with flooding in that area.

In recent years the Pearl has repeatedly flooded Pearl River and Slidell homes.

Logue says although the study is on 'an expedited schedule' it will not be completed in time to help the Corps deal with the present flood season which extends from December through April.

Ken Bray, Corps study manager, says the data gathered includes engineering surveys, soil investigations, average ground elevations around all houses, first-floor heights of all structures, elevations of street corners and limited topographical information in swampy areas.

The Corps is also conducting hydrologic and hydraulic studies of the area, he adds.

Logue says the planners are investigating the feasibility of channelizing the Pearl to reduce flooding—not by widening, but by deepening shoaled in areas with dredging equipment to speed water flow.

They are also considering creating more openings under I-10 and US-90 which inhibit water flow during floods, he notes.

Bray states, "The Corps is currently evaluating four different levee alignments and appurtenant structures

Douglas Williams promises to restore dignity to his native neighborhood

By EDGAR PEREZ

Sea Coast Echo Managing Editor

An aura of lawlessness which has pervaded the area of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets in Bay St. Louis for many years tarnishes the image of the city's entire Black community.

The city's Black police chief, Douglas Williams, recently came under fire from some residents of the area who contend his officers ran roughshod over the citizens' civil rights in their efforts to restore law and order to the location.

But, Williams contends, the complainers are primarily a few malcontents who are themselves chiefly responsible for the adverse conditions which exist on the corner.

"And if my men, in their zealousness to follow my instructions to clean up this area, may have in some small way violated the civil rights of any citizen, then I apologize for that."

"If anybody in this city knows anything about civil rights and the right of Black people, I'm your man," Williams contends.

Williams is the new police department ment has no intention of acting outside of the law to achieve our objective—we do not believe the end justifies the means," Williams continued in a special interview this week.

"It's time the people of Bay St. Louis, especially the Black people, know exactly how I feel about this matter," he stated.

The chief was emphatic in expressing his determination to end a situation on "The Corner" which he feels should have disappeared with the advent of integration some thirty years ago.

"There's no longer need for our people to be hanging out that way on any corner, engaging in lawless acts and creating bad feelings against the people in the neighborhood among citizens from other parts of the city," Williams believes.

"The productive Black residents of this neighborhood have a perfect right to resent the ghettoization of their area by the acts of those who persist in bringing that low-income Black neighborhood image to the corner, the slanted sidewalks,

"I was born in this neighborhood and have lived here all my life and I have never been poor," insists Williams, a successful independent pulp wood dealer before he joined the Bay PD some 19 years ago.

"Most of the people in this neighborhood own their own homes; I raised six girls right here and sent them to college," he explains.

"I have lived here all my life and I want to remain proud of my neighborhood. I want to be able to hold my head up high and welcome my friends from anywhere they may come into my neighborhood," the chief insists.

"I have listened to complaints from both Black and white residents and officials for many years about the situation on that corner, and those complaints are wholly justified," Williams laments.

"All I'm trying to do at this point is eliminate the flagrant using of drugs, peddling of narcotics, public gambling, use of the corner as a public rest room, obstructing traffic, blocking the sidewalks, vandalizing property, disturbing the peace with loud radios, fighting which frequently results in hospitalization of the participants, and shootings which have resulted in two deaths within recent memory."

"All of those type incidents are frequently reported to the police and many residents have repeatedly implored the police department to put a stop to this illegal and degrading behavior," Williams added.

"It's bad enough most white residents won't drive past the corner after dark, but it's an outrageous shame when respectable Black residents won't pass there in the day," Williams cried.

While Williams reiterated his intention to strictly avoid any violation of civil rights on the part of members of his department, he insists he has given no instructions to ease up on enforcement of the law in the area.

"The public streets and sidewalks belong to all of the people, and I have every intention of making the intersection of Sycamore and St. Francis Streets in Bay St. Louis safe for anyone, and I am going to restore peace and dignity to my own neighborhood, you can depend on that," the police chief announced.

Majik Market is robbed, culprit getaway successful

By NAN PATTON EHBRIGHT

A Jan. 25 armed robbery of the Majik Market at Sears and Waveland Avenues left few leads for the Waveland Police Department.

Police Chief Donald Dorn said the robber, who got away with some $435, wore Army-type olive-green fatigues, a ski mask and gloves.

According to Dorn, Ernest Bordenau, the clerk on duty, had started to straighten up items on a shelf in back of the store about 2:40 a.m. when he heard the door open and turned to find a man standing at the other end of the shelves.

Bordenau told police officials that the man, about five feet three inches tall, pointed a silver-toned gun at him—"probably a .32, judging from the bore"—and told him to get behind the register and put all the money in a paper bag.

Following the robbery the thief put Bordenau in the storeroom.

"The clerk did not see him when he left, or see or hear a vehicle," Dorn said.

Why We Are Building A New Hospital...

The construction of a new hospital for Hancock County has been much in the news lately. In order to clarify many points and questions being asked by the public, the Hancock General Hospital Board of Trustees would like to take this means to answer some of these questions.

Did You Know

1. Hancock General Hospital was built in 1960 as a 36-bed facility, with support services for those 36 beds. In 1964, 20 additional beds were added, but no provisions were made to expand the support services.

2. The present facility utilizes 29,700 square feet of space, but current services and needed additional services require at least 65,000 square feet of space.

3. At the present facility, there is a traffic problem due to a lack of improvements to Dunbar Avenue and the traffic from the elementary school across the street. The shopping center at Dunbar Avenue and Highway 90 has created additional traffic problems.

4. During Hurricane Camille in 1969, Hancock General did not receive any flood waters, but became inaccessible due to flood waters filling lowlying areas surrounding the hospital and blocking access roads.

5. According to a building evaluation study done in 1981 by Nix, Mann and Associates, Inc., of Atlanta, Georgia, by request of Hospital Corporation of America, the electrical systems and equipment at Hancock General were found to be in relatively poor condition. Repair and updating would be difficult in many instances due to inaccessibility of parts and ceilings.

6. The mechanical systems in the present building, according to the same study, are 17-23 years old, approaching or exceeding

CONCLUSION:

Therefore, a new hospital facility is necessary according to the following major reasons:

A. The cost of upgrading the present facility.

B. The difficulty of adding to the existing structure.

C. The age of the original building and systems.

the normal life expectancy of most of the equipment. It is not unreasonable to have major expenditures to replace or make major repairs to the equipment within the next few years.

7. According to an economic profile of Hancock County prepared by the Mississippi Research and Development Center, population in the county is estimated to increase from 24,592 to 32,000, or 18%, by 1990. Bay St. Louis, with a present population of 7,850, will see an estimated 20% increase to 9,650. Waveland, with 4,223 now, will increase to approximately 6,000, or 30%. Therefore, a new facility should be located in the most heavily populated geographical area, which is the twin cities of Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

8. Renovation of the present building would take two years, during which time the hospital could not be operational due to a disruption of services and personnel. There would also be no improvement in flow patterns, and the old systems would be difficult to change due to the present layout, i.e., use of the main corridor for visitors, emergency equipment, post surgery and delivery patients, location of the nursery, etc.

9. In order to correct the deficiencies in the present building, it would cost approximately $4.5 million, while the addition of 30,000 square feet would cost another $4.5 million, and these figures do not include the cost of new equipment, estimated at $4 million, or the financing cost itself.

D. The potential benefits of relocating the hospital on a site which would be closer to the geographically most populated areas of the members of the community which it serves.

E. The lack of disruption of health care services during construction and renovation.

ACHIEVEMENT CONFERENCE

The two top black seniors from more than 50 Mississippi high schools, several of whom are National Merit semi-finalists, have been invited to attend the annual National Achievement and Leadership Conference at The University of Mississippi Feb. 9-11.

The students will be recognized for academic excellence and afforded the opportunity to meet with University administrators and department heads in their fields of interests, as well as the Old Miss community.

Also slated for the three-day event are a wide variety of seminars and workshops designed to give students a review of academic majors offered at Ole Miss and numerous extracurricular activities being held in conjunction with the university's observance of Black History Month.

Organizing tax records can increase savings

RECORDKEEPING FOR TAXES

Organizing tax records is not a pleasant task, but it cannot be delayed much longer. Tax returns take longer to prepare than ever before. It requires assembling and listing of information. Diligent study must be given to maximizing tax savings.

To begin your tax preparation, you should list all taxable income for 1983. Your income records, such as bank books, checking account deposits, stockbroker's statements, insurance company data, and statements from real estate agents should supply you with this list.

Your W-2 form from your employer will supply you with salary total, plus deductions. Also, 1099 forms for interest, dividends, and commissions are important.

All income must be reported. This includes checks in your possession on December 31 but not deposited or cashed until January.

An excellent way to begin your 1983 deductions is to review your 1982 return. Next, review monthly bank statements, removing cancelled checks which represent tax-deductible expenses. Be certain to check the January, 1984 statement.

This will help you catch checks written in 1983 but not clearing the bank until 1984. (The check for the fourth estimated tax payment for 1983, due January 15, 1984, should also be removed.)

When all deductions have been removed, checks should be sorted according to category, such as donations, taxes, medical expenses, etc. Summarize your information from the checks into deduction categories.

If all bills are paid by check, you should not need receipts for making this list.

It is essential that you keep those receipts, though. If some bills are paid by cash, you will need to sort those receipts into the deduction categories.

Add these amounts to the amounts of deductible items paid by check. Other receipts should be retained in case of an audit by the Internal Revenue Service.

Checks and receipts should be filed by categories in envelopes after they are summarized. All 1983 tax information should be placed in a large envelope or file labeled "1983 tax information."

The cost of having a professional prepare your taxes will largely depend on the amount of time required to complete the tax return.

If your tax data is well-organized and summarized as suggested, it will require less of the accountant's or tax preparer's time. You may save on the cost of preparation.

You may also save by finding deductions you may have otherwise overlooked.

MEC News

Some 200 municipal officials from Mississippi's cities, towns, and villages were in Jackson within the past few days, all searching for ways to meet growing demands for public services with limited public dollars.

The encouraging word was that the city officials, all part of the Mississippi Municipal Association, were looking for leads through a little used statute which has been available for almost 10 years now.

The statute, called the Interlocal Cooperation ACT of 1974, was enacted in order to encourage cooperation among local governments.

Unfortunately, for taxpayers—the Act has been virtually ignored by city and county officials until now. The event which brought the municipal officials together was the annual legislative conference of the association.

Focal point of this year's conference was a recent report by the Mississippi Economic Council which explained the objective of the Act and which also pointed out that local officials had shown little interest in it.

The Act permits cooperation between and among local officials—cities and cities, cities and counties, and counties and counties—in 12 specific areas of community services.

U.S. Small Business Administration

By Dorothy A. Overal Public Information Officer

Q: As a small manufacturer, I need to replace some equipment. I'm not sure whether I should buy or lease. Any hints?

A: The obvious advantage to leasing equipment is acquiring the equipment without making a large cash outlay. Here are some of the advantages and disadvantages of leasing:

Advantages:

—No down payment is usually required.

—There is no restriction on the company's financial operations.

—Payments may be spread over a longer period of time, thus providing lower payments.

—In the event that the equipment becomes obsolete, you can always trade for newer equipment. Many lessors provide replacement equipment in the event of failure.

—Lease payments are tax deductible as operating expenses.

Disadvantages:

—The cost is usually greater due to loss of tax advantages and lease charges.

—The company loses the economic value of the equipment as an asset.

—Ownership of equipment provides greater tax benefits through investment tax credits and depreciation.

—Leases are long-term obligations and usually cannot be cancelled.

Q: Where can a small business look for long-term, equity financing—the type of help not always available through a bank?

A: One of the best sources is a small business investment company (SBIC).

SBICs, which came into existence 25 years ago, are licensed and supervised by the U.S. Small Business Administration for the very purpose of helping new and existing small firms with longer-term financing.

In Fiscal 1983, for example (the year that ended last September 30), SBICs made 2,567 separate financings worth $397.7 million. About 75 percent of dollars disbursed by SBICs were in the form of equity financing. That $397.7 million in overall help was a record for any single year.

About 30 percent of SBIC financing in Fiscal 1983 went to small firms in machinery, electrical and electronic machinery manufacturing.

A special type of SBIC—a MESBIC, or minority enterprise small business investment company—directs financial help to small firms owned by minorities. MESBICs during Fiscal 1983 made $13 financings worth $54.9 million. About 35 percent of that help went to food stores, passenger transportation and communications.

Any SBA office can provide lists of SBICs. The Biloxi Branch of SBA is located in the Gulf National Life Insurance Building, 111 Fred Haise Blvd., 435-3676.

COUNTRY COMRADES

Willie Nelson, Merle Haggard and Freddie Powers - three buddies off stage as well as on - appear together on the next, brand-new "Austin City Limits" concert at 8 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 4, on the Mississippi ETV Network.

Nelson and Haggard need no introduction to viewers, but Freddie Powers may be one of the best-kept secrets in the world of music. He sings a song like a baseball bat and won't let go. He describes himself as "grumpy" and his music shows traces of Django Reinhardt and other jazz forefathers.

The first time Willie Nelson in 1968 hit the honky-tonk, and they have remained fast friends to this day.

The most Willie Haggard in 1961 when he (Power) was a hotel entertainment director, and Haggard was playing the band. Today, when Power and Haggard are not writing songs, they are probably off somewhere fishing together.

There are 2 basic steps that you can take to determine if you have adequate insurance on your valuables:

1. Get an appraisal and know today's replacement value for your protection. Have valuables professionally appraised.
2. Know the limits on your losses in your Homeowners Policy. Your Homeowners Policy covers all personal possessions. When there is a loss by theft, however, the amount of reimbursement on certain items is limited.

such as levees, pumps and floodgates to determine their economic, environmental and engineering feasibility."

Logue reports the Corps is also studying "nonstructural alternatives" which include moving residents out of flood-prone areas or altering homes to prevent further flood damage to them.

He explains that a "flood plain evacuation" alternative would involve buying homes and property of residents in susceptible areas and demolishing those structures.

"In some cases it's cheaper to buy out residents rather than to try to protect them from flooding," Logue states.

He says another alternative the study might offer could be waterproofing structures in the Pearl flood plain.

This method would include relatively minor modifications such as placing homes higher above the ground on pilings, Logue reports.

"What we'll do is look at this situation, see what it takes to fix the problem and if the people are agreeable we will proceed on a solution," he states.

Logue reports the Corps received $200,000 in fiscal year 1983 to begin the study in August and at the beginning of fiscal year 1984 in October the Corps was provided $725,000 to complete the planning work.

Bray adds that the Corps is developing a two-foot contour map of the flood area to assist them in the study.

"We will eventually overlay the vegetation types being mapped by the U.S. Army Waterways Experiment Station here in Vicksburg on to the contour map, allowing us to see how the land use has changed from primarily agricultural to an urban area," he reports.

"As we develop our alternatives, we can determine how much of each type vegetation and/or land use would be affected by that alternative," Bray says.

Logue reports the Corps is also meeting with other government agencies and groups to inform them of the progress of the study.

Those entities include the Military Road Alliance, U.S. Geological Survey Service and the Louisiana Department of Transportation and Development, he lists.

"Other studies under the overall Pearl River Study receiving funds this year include the Jackson Flood Control Study being conducted by the Mobile Corps District and navigation studies on the lower Pearl River being conducted by the Vicksburg District," he states.

He adds that the Slidell-Pearlington Study received about 80 percent of government funds allocated for Pearl River projects because the Jackson study is nearing completion.

Shuttle launch slated Friday

Golden Eagle among Challenger crew

Astronaut Robert L. Stewart, a 1964 ROTC graduate from the University of Southern Mississippi, Friday will be the first Army astronaut scheduled on a space shuttle mission.

LTC Stewart's presence on board the space shuttle 'Challenger' will for eight days underline the Army's new commitment to space exploration.

During the mission, Stewart will test the 'manned maneuvering unit,' a one-man, nitrogen gas-propelled backpack that snaps onto the spacesuit's portable life-support system.

NASA plans the test as a dress rehearsal for the upcoming 'Solar Max' repair mission in April.

"I'll be the world's smallest spacecraft," Stewart said from his NASA office in Houston. "On the fifth day of the mission, Bruce McCandless (a Navy astronaut) and I will test the unit from 150 and 300 feet away from orbiter."

If Stewart's tests are successful,

NASA hopes the astronauts on the April mission will be able to leave their craft to repair a satellite disabled during an earlier launch.

"I'm very excited about it," Stewart said. "I will go outside the shuttle to fly the unit." Stewart will be on a safety line attached to Challenger during this test.

According to an article that appeared in 'Soldier Magazine,' Stewart has been training for this mission for more than a year, but added that before being selected for a crew, an astronaut has to spend a lot of time studying.

Stewart said the shuttle systems are still in their infancy, so a lot of technical research is taking place in order to design, operate and redesign the systems.

Stewart was an experimental test pilot for four years before his selection as an astronaut.

His fixed-wing experience goes back to his college days at USM when he flew charter flights for a civilian air service.

He joined the Army in 1964 and attended flight school at Fort Wolters, Tex., and Fort Rucker, Ala.

Stewart said he likes to think his experience as an experimental test pilot led to his selection for this flight because it's the first flight of the manned maneuvering unit.

Stewart will ride center seat in the shuttle as flight engineer. His planned flight gear will include two pairs of Army astronaut wings and a replica of the Army flag.

"The Army gave me a firm foundation in flying, engineering and equipment evaluation skills," he said. "The space program is the new frontier. It's sort of an outgrowth of my love of flying." Stewart has logged some 5,500 flight hours in 38 types of airplanes and helicopters.

He already hopes to 'go up again' after his first shuttle ride. "This isn't a one-shot deal," he said. "For an Army person this offers a legitimate career field. Right now we're entering an era of practical use of space — both for civilian and military purposes. The Army can't afford to be left out of it."

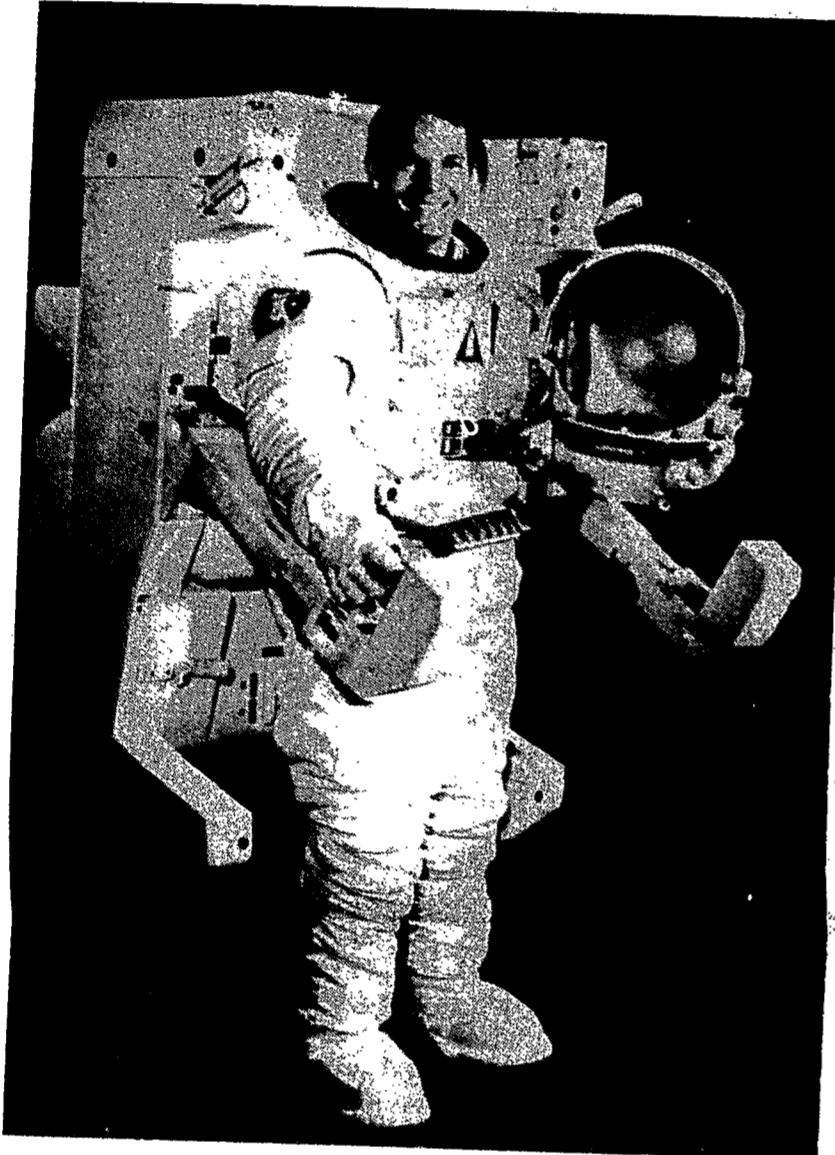

With Stewart's entry into space only days away, he doesn't feel particularly special. "You know, a lot of people think this is dangerous. I don't feel any sense of danger or any degree of being special at all; I feel like I have a very good job, one that I've progressed to over a number of years. I built the skills very carefully towards achieving this goal. Not that I had this goal in mind, but the path that I took, being a pilot and experimental test pilot, ultimately led in this direction.

Challenger is scheduled to make the first Shuttle landing on the 15,000 foot long runway at Kennedy Space Center.

Landfall over Florida will occur over the Peninsula's west coast as the orbiter crosses the state on an almost due east ground track.

NASA officials said two distinct sonic booms will be audible the entire width of the central part of the state as the velocity of the spacecraft falls below the speed of sound.

Stewart, who now resides with his family in Seabrook, Tex., will be joined by Commander Vance Brand, leader of the mission, pilot Robert (Hoot) Gibson and two other mission specialists, Bruce McCandless and Ronald McNair.

SIMLEST SPACECRAFT—Astronaut Robert L. Stewart, a 1964 graduate of the University of Southern Mississippi, is scheduled to test the 'manned maneuvering unit' during the Challenger space shuttle mission set for launch Feb. 3.

FUZZY FELLA—A good home with a fenced yard is needed soon for Ruff who is now at the Hancock County Animal Shelter on Gulfside Drive in Waveland. The male dog is a mixed breed long-haired German shepherd about one year old and very frisky. But Ruff needs a home quickly or he will be painfully destroyed because the shelter is filled with dogs and room must be made for others. ## Tree Planting Week participation expected to run high in Mississippi

Mississippi's annual Tree Planting Week is only days away (Feb. 10-17) and indications are that local participation in the observance will be among the highest in the event's ten-year history.

Highlight of the observance in Hancock County will be distribution of free trees from three locations Wednesday through Friday, Feb. 15-17 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to David Watts, Hancock County forester.

The Soil Conservation Service will offer seedlings at its offices on Hwy. 603 next to the Kiln Supermarket, the Hancock County forester will distribute from the second floor of the Courthouse on Main Street, Bay St. Louis, and the county agent will have trees available at the Extension office, 405 Necaise Ave., Bay St. Louis.

"Plans for Tree Planting Week are well along in most counties at this point," said Chauncey Tanner of Jackson, Tree Planting Week chairman for 1984.

"Everything from memorial tree planting ceremonies on courthouse lawns to school ground plantings and public seedling giveaways have been scheduled."

"Local radio, television and newspaper people are again helping to publicize these events for us, too. Cooperation in most communities has really been something to see!"

Tanner said Mississippi's annual "Celebration of Trees" has been steadily growing since the program was first spread statewide in 1975. Millions of trees have been planted in conjunction with the annual event. "Mississippians basically love trees and understand their tremendous importance to our overall economy and environment. Participation in Tree Planting Week gives a lot of people the opportunity to do something personal to exhibit their care and appreciation for trees," Tanner said.

"Just about every adult can cite some nostalgic event in their lives connected with trees. That's why it's good to have so many school children participating in Tree Planting Week. They can watch a little seedling grow up with them and gain a healthy perspective about trees and the role they play in our lives."

Tree Planting Week committees are led by Soil & Water Conservation District Commissioners in each county and the event is co-sponsored by county foresters.

Casseroles afford economy to budget-conscious cooks

By Ann O. Rushing
Extension Marketing Specialist

Casseroles provide convenience and economy for busy, budget conscious cooks.

Many foods, from main dish to dessert, can be cooked in a casserole. They are time-savers, in that they may be made up several hours ahead, placed in the refrigerator, then put in the oven to bake when needed for a meal.

Many casseroles lend themselves well to freezing. Make up several, cook and serve one and store the others in the freezer for later use.

To conserve fuel energy, bake several casseroles at one time — one of meat, a vegetable and a dessert.

There are many occasions when a casserole is the best choice for a meal. The convenience of the casserole, its popularity as a way to use leftovers are all familiar advantages. Sometimes in our zeal for the practical, we may overlook the possibilities for making a casserole real gourmet fare.

There are recipes planned for elegant party-type casseroles suitable for buffet entertaining. Subtly seasoned, interestingly flavored, a really good casserole can be a culinary achievement suitable for any occasion where you want to serve good food.

Casseroles are the perfect answer for busy homemakers and time-saving for hostesses. Another advantage is if part of the family happens to be late for a meal the casserole remains in good condition with the heat suitably reduced.

Use any foods desired and have on hand in casserole dishes. Choose those that look and taste well together and that the family likes. Use leftovers or planned-overs when extra foods are cooked to have some to use in later meals for casserole dishes.

Casseroles consist basically of a protein food (meat, fish, poultry, cheese, eggs, dried beans) combined with a sauce, canned soup or other liquid. Frequently a starchy food such as noodles, rice or potatoes is added making a little meat or other principal ingredient go a long way.

Fancy recipes and menus are not needed for easy casseroles or oven meals. Just check up on foods in good supply, selling at the most attractive prices at the market. Decide the ones wanted. Then it's merely a matter of combining.

Casserole recipes are not precise. It's up to the cook to add or subtract seasonings and other ingredients according to what the family prefers and what's available.

Good ingredients make a good casserole, but pennies can be saved by selecting food appropriate for use. Canned tomatoes to go into casseroles need not be fancy, or the most expensive. Shape isn't important in most casserole recipes, so there's no need to pay extra for it. Grated tuna usually costs less than chunk style, but the flavor is the same.

Here are a few points for successful casseroles: Use foods that "go together" from the standpoint of flavor, texture and color. Keep pieces of food in identifiable sizes and shapes. Remember that the casserole will absorb some of

NSTL, Murphy School join in space age education

A cooperative education program undertaken by National Space Technology Laboratories and the Charles B. Murphy Elementary School in Pearlington is proving to be a valuable learning experience for the students, the faculty and members of NSTL's outreach program.

In May 1983, NSTL initiated an intensive program of educational activities at the Hancock County school, which is located less than 10 miles from NSTL's south entrance.

"Because of the school's location, it is possible to involve the students in a wide variety of activities, both here and at the school," said Mack Herring, NSTL's public affairs and education officer.

"Phillip Terrell, the principal of Murphy, offered to allow us to use the school as a laboratory to pilot new education programs."

Since the program began, Jim McMurtry, NSTL's aerospace education specialist, has presented assembly programs to the entire student body and visited each classroom.

In the future, employees of NASA and NSTL's resident agencies will conduct programs at the school and also at NSTL.

Turkey callers to gather at Perkinston Saturday

Turkey callers from around the state and nation are expected for a Wild Turkey Seminar and Calling Contest on Saturday at Gulf Coast Junior College's Perkinston Campus.

Guest speakers will be Howard W. Pollock of Washington, D.C., president of the National Rifle Association; Ben Rogers Lee of Cofeeville, Ala., world champion turkey caller; Bruce Brady of Brookhaven, editor-at-large of Outdoor Magazine; and Tom Kelly of Mobile, author of two books on turkey hunting.

Registration for the seminar and calling contest will begin on campus at 8 a.m. Participation in the seminar will be limited to 500 people.

Gene Davis, chairman of the event, said there will be calling contests for junior and senior contestants and that prizes will be awarded to the top four winners in each division.

"As an added attraction, there will also be an owl-hooting contest with prizes going to those who can best imitate that wise old bird," Davis said.

He said sporting goods, wildlife art and the work of taxidermists will be on display throughout the day.

Concluding the activities, sponsored by the Perkinston Campus student services department, will be a banquet featuring speeches by Kelly and Pollock. Lee will emcee the affair.

Additional information is available from Davis at the Perkinston Campus at Perkinston. The telephone number is (601) 928-5211.

Bay soccer group slates referee test

A Soccer Referee's Test will be administered at 1 p.m. Sunday for Bay Area Youth Soccer, Inc. by Ed Croal at the Main Street United Methodist Church.

All BAYS referees and referee trainees are urged to take the test at this time to become certified referees.

Frank Gray has copies of the Laws of the Game, and Tom Demboski can provide any additional information.

For those who successfully pass the test BAYS supplies a referee's jersey and pays the registration fee.

In pre-season soccer this past weekend there was an Under 14 game at the Seminary field between Bay-Waveland Tire and Knights of Columbus.

Dental Health Service (Under 12) and Dillmann Roofing (Under 10-Girls) went to Slidell to participate in the Mardi Gras Tournament.

Locally the Knights scored first and were never headed in earning a 5-2 decision over Bay-Waveland Tire. Bay-Waveland was the victim of some bad bounces as its fullbacks scored two goals for the opponents and it missed a penalty shot.

Meanwhile at Slidell the Dental Health Service "Raiders" opened the tourney with a 7-1 romp over the Rowdies of Slidell behind Billy Guice's five goals.

In the second game of the day the Raiders stumbled as La Fenier #1 of New Orleans shut them out 6-0.

On Sunday the Sonics of Slidell also shut out the Raiders 6-0, but the Raiders played much better.

In the finale the Raiders led La Fenier #2 of New Orleans 1-0 on a header by Billy Guice off a corner kick at the five minute mark, but La Fenier scored on its own header with one minute remaining to tie the game 1-1.

Dillmann Roofing "Dynamites" surprised the Gulfport eleven by salvaging a 1-1 tie on a goal in the last two minutes of play. In the second game against LaFayette the Dynamites held a 1-0 lead at halftime, but due to injury had to play one short in the second half and lost 2-1.

Linda Keating, a math and science teacher, said, "The students were hesitant at first, but when they got to use the computer, they really enjoyed it and were very enthusiastic about it. I learned from it too. I learned to help them a lot. It helped me and I know it helped them."

Their enthusiasm and willingness to learn was noted by Terrell and members of the faculty.

Said Terrell, "Basically, we tried to make sure the students became familiar with computers to the point where they can be useful in any area of learning. We're not trying to replace any part of the curriculum. We're just trying to supplement our curriculum."

One successful measure of the program, Terrell said, is the fact that the students had hand-on experience with a computer here at school. Some of them may never get that opportunity again."

"Just to get the experience,

With the classroom portion of the training program completed, the students will visit the U.S. Geological Survey National Mapping Division's computer laboratory at NSTL in the coming months for additional instruction.

Sports Brief

GREEN CITED

Southern Mississippi's Curtis Green, senior guard and captain for the Golden Eagles, has Metro Conference single-game highs in three categories, according to statistics released in the latest issue of the Metro News.

The Memphis, Tenn. resident has the season's current highs for free throws made (11), free throws attempted (15) and field goals attempted (15).

USM is tied for the league lead in field goals made (44) for a single game.

In Sunday's game the Dynamites fielded only nine players and still played well enough to hold down a powerhouse Slidell squad to a 5-2 score. For the weekend Andrea Platz, Renee LeBourgeois, Megan Uram and Amy Lee were the goal scorers while Day Hays and Susanne Cameron were the defensive standouts.

This weekend on Saturday SportsWorld is holding an SMS team at 10:30 a.m. at the Seminary followed at 12:30 p.m. by Alcan Cable against Picayune. Alcan Cable is in an informal league which includes besides Picayune Mandeville and Covington.

Hog hunting allowed, but don't trespass

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A State Department of Wildlife Conservation law enforcement officer reports there are no restrictions governing the hunting of wild hogs in Mississippi, but warned that hunters must have written permission from the owner to enter posted property.

Pat Toomey, the conservation officer, this week said he has received numerous inquiries from individuals interested in hunting woods swine.

"Philip Strong, our chief law enforcement officer, says you can hunt wild hogs with dogs and gun or just with a gun year-round," Toomey stated.

He said the best areas for hunting these animals are in Ansley, Logtown and Devil's Swamp.

"But we caution all hunters that they have to have written permission to hunt on posted property," Toomey emphasized.

The conservation officer said there are also no restrictions on hunting wild coyotes and armadillos, formerly western animals which have migrated here and are increasing in numbers here.

He also reported there is no restrictions on fox hunting, but these animals can only be trapped during a state-approved season.

Toomey advises anyone with questions regarding any type of hunting to call him at 467-4980.

CASTIN' ABOUT

TAKE THIS BAIT OUT FOR A SPIN

The spinnerbait is one of the all-time best bass lures, and there are several ways of producing fish on it.

However, the most commonly-used and extremely effective approaches with the spinnerbait is casting it around heavy cover in shallow water.

A standard tactic of all pro fishermen is to cast it past heavy cover and retrieve it right back through the cover, keeping it two to four inches under the surface of the water. Most of the time you'll be able to see the lure as it is being retrieved. In some cases when the water is very murky, you might not be able to see the spinnerbait, but it should be close enough to the surface to create a wake.

This is the way I fish a spinnerbait most of the time and will be doing it along the Red Man Tournament Trail.

Remember, a spinnerbait is virtually weedless by nature of its design. It can be worked right through heavy brush. Don't be afraid to throw a spinnerbait into places you'd think a rabbit would be hiding if there was no water there.

Another good shallow water spinnerbait technique is what I call the summertime buzz method. This is simply running the bait right up next to the surface, but not letting the spinner blades break the surface.

This is a tactic that also works really well over grass that lies only a couple of inches under the surface. You can run the bait over the cover and draw some really big fish out of the grass to hit it.

PRC announces fall honor rolls

Twelve percent of the students attending Pearl River College during the 1983 fall semester are listed on the school's elite President's or Dean's Lists.

Another 25 percent of the fall semester students are also on a list; however, it's the spring probation list. Another six percent, or 111 students, were not permitted to register for class after the Christmas break because they are suspended for one semester.

At Pearl River College, 258 students are on financial aid probation and 23 were suspended from financial aid for the second semester of the 1983-84 year.

PRC revamped its standards this past summer, forcing students to face new mandatory final course exams, limits on financial aid for failing students and minimum grade point average standards.

President Marvin R. White said in a release last fall, "We're not closing the door of opportunity at our junior college. We're merely expecting our students to perform once they get here."

Pearl River College's 1983 fall enrollment at the Poplarville campus was 1,747. Of that number 32 made the Academic President's List and 39 made the Vocational-Technical President's List. Sixty-one students made the PRC Dean's List and 79 earned recognition on the Vocational-Technical Dean's List.

At the same time, 446 students were listed on probation.

After the 1982 fall semester, 96 students made the President's List, 202 the Dean's List and 277 students were placed on probation.

The 1983 fall semester honor roll includes:

IT'S A FACT

There are only two investor-owned electric utilities in the state—Mississippi Power Company, which is headquartered in Gulfport, and Mississippi Power & Light Company, (MP&L), which is located in Jackson. The names are similar sounding, but compared with MP&L, Mississippi Power has a different service area, different customers, different generating plants, different rates, and different investors. In fact, about the only thing we have in common is the product we both sell.

In Southeast Mississippi the name's Mississippi Power. And that's all there is to it.

EDITORIAL

Creating Partnerships For Excellence

The week of Feb. 12 through 18 is National Vocational Education Week. This is an appropriate time to think about the importance of vocational education to our community and to our nation.

At a time when excellence in education is a top priority on the national agenda, the theme for the week, 'Vocational Education: Creating Partnerships for Excellence,' clearly communicates the ideal link that should exist between vocational education and the community.

Vocational education is charged with preparing people for work and achieves its goal through partnerships with students, community agencies, trade associations, business and industry.

This year alone, approximately 170,000 people will be trained at the 104 vocational-technical centers strategically located throughout Mississippi.

These young people and adults are preparing for a wide range of promising careers in many occupational fields including industry, marketing, distribution of goods and services, agriculture, health, business, home economics and related areas.

Vocational education students learn how to perform a skill through laboratory experiences and classroom instruction.

Through partnerships with business and industry, vocational education instructors are able to give their students on the job training as a complement to their classroom instruction.

In Mississippi, partnerships with business are making it possible to design customized vocational-technical training programs to meet the new demands of the workplace, especially in high-tech industries.

One of the many examples of vocational education's full partnerships with business and government is in the implementation of the Jobs Training Partnership Act (JTPA), a federal jobs training program.

In many communities, vocational education programs are providing the majority of training for displaced and unemployed workers who participate in the program.

Vocational education programs contribute to the welfare of local communities by preparing citizens for the demand of changing workplace.

As community planners press forward to make decisions about the future, they must examine employment projections.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics projects that in the coming decade less than 20 percent of the available jobs will require a baccalaureate degree. This makes it even more critical for vocational education to create new partnerships with industry and community agencies to plan together for realistic programs to meet the needs of the 1990's.

As the pace of technological, social and economic change accelerates, vocational education programs will need to strengthen existing partnerships and reach out to create new ones.
